

Johnson Matthey

Business Integrity and Ethics Policy

A reputation for integrity has been a cornerstone of Johnson Matthey's business since Percival Norton Johnson founded it in 1817. It gives customers the confidence that the company's products meet the standards claimed for them and that they may safely entrust their own precious metals to Johnson Matthey for processing and safe keeping. Employees at all levels are required to protect Johnson Matthey's reputation for integrity.

The company strives to maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct and corporate responsibility worldwide through the application of the following principles:

- Compliance with national and international laws and regulations is required as a minimum standard.
- Reputable business practices must be applied worldwide.
- Conflicts of interest must be declared and appropriate arrangements made to ensure that those with a material interest are not involved in the decision making process.
- Improper payments of any kind are prohibited, similarly no gift whose value is material and which may be interpreted as a form of inducement should be accepted or offered by Johnson Matthey employees.
- Reporting of business performance should be undertaken in such a way that senior management is fully and properly informed concerning the business' true performance, risks and opportunities in a timely manner.
- Ethical issues must be dealt with in an efficient and transparent manner. A positive contribution to society as a whole, and specifically to the communities in which we operate, must be ensured.
- We must seek to influence our suppliers to operate to similar high standards as ourselves.

All employees have a duty to follow the principles set out in Johnson Matthey's Business Integrity and Ethics Policy Statement. It is the responsibility of directors and senior management to ensure that all employees who directly or indirectly report to them are fully aware of Johnson Matthey's policies and values in the conduct of the company's businesses. It is also the responsibility of directors and senior management to lead by example and to demonstrate the highest standards of integrity in carrying out their duties on behalf of the company. These issues are further safeguarded through corporate governance processes and monitoring by the board and sub-committees of the board.